Macron said that "the so-called Muslim ban is not a policy. It's not even an opinion. It is a decision taken by a single person," and made it clear that he will not agree to a "Muslim ban." "You cannot close your eyes to the dangers which threaten humanity," he said. "That is why I am fighting all forms of racism, sexism, anti-Semitism, and all other forms of intolerance. That is why I have decided to initiate the work of building a Republic of France based on the principles of liberty, equality and fraternity." Macron said France has "always

They did a great job of making this series feel very different from Star Trek on TV before. They seemed to have a very strong focus on the social issues. Also, they did a great job of making the cast seem very new and fresh, even though some of the cast members are a bit older than in Star Trek on TV. If they can keep this up, I think the show will be an excellent addition to the Star Trek canon. However, I do not think the main plot of the show is all that strong. The discovery of a new Spock with a more human appearance, and the reveal that the red and orange for the Klingons are different colors than for the Klingons in the pre-TOS Klingons show, is a very small thing. (This could just be a place to put it in for now, though I do think this is something that will become more important over time.) My primary disappointment with the show is the sexualization 2d92ce491b
