United, I'm finally getting famous." By JamRoo Erickson This is just an over-long introduction so that you might think I am something other than a recently traded Boston midfielder. If I mention the name "JamRoo," you can be sure I am not a well-known midfielder. I am a transfer-listed midfielder on the buying team. Unbeknownst to my Union teammates, I was traded last week to the rival D.C. United for midfielder Jacobo Saragosa. (for more info, please read the intro here.) I'm hoping, dear god, that even the Union players do not recognize my name. They are, after all, very familiar with a name, Jacobo Saragosa. He is a leading man for DC United. A bit. If I mention to my teammates that I traded for Saragosa, please don't think that I am a complete idiot, or incapable of assembling a coherent sentence. That is not my style. Please, trust me when I say that if you understood every single email that I sent to US Soccer, you would understand that I am simply a guy who is trying to help. If you are a soccer team, let me put it this way: Imagine that I am someone who bought your favorite player and gave him to a rival team. He is a great player and you could benefit from him, for sure. Does that make you happy? Does that make you feel good about your team? I certainly hope that if you are a team,
