Watch the trailer here: "HyperMotion Technology is a big step forward for the FIFA series, not only because of the increased realism, but also because we feel that it really brings the emotion of the sport to life on a whole new level," said Sam Hainsworth, Creative Director at EA Canada. "Now we can truly give players the ability to enjoy every single tackle, feint, header and dribble, letting them really feel the pressure, and hear the crowd roar, as they make a vital play in a match." "With this new step in the evolution of FIFA, players can really feel their feet on the ground and there will be more than one feeling between a player winning a tackle, or being physically beaten in a one-on-one." FIFA 22 delivers a complete football experience with new, never-before-seen control schemes to mimic the real thing. New camera angles, player cues, new animations, and more give players greater control over how they play the game. The power of the Frostbite engine is harnessed for football in FIFA 22. Frostbite puts the power of the world's most successful game engine behind the goal for FIFA's biggest leap in team and player dynamics. Players work more naturally together on the pitch with the specific mentalities and play-styles for eleven players on a pitch.
